Beauty plus app apk file

File managers can be a dozen cents on Android, but Solid Explorer stands out from the package. With advanced features for managing and browsing files, both on the phone and remotely, it is our new favorite file manager. Update: Recently, our previous ES File Explorer choice began to add some shady adware to its free version. The paid version ($2.99) is still secure, but we decided to update our best choice to reflect this new development. Solid ExplorerPlatform: AndroidPrice: $1.99 after 14 days free trialDownload PageFeatures Basic file management features: copy, paste, size, create, delete, rename, share and send files stored on SD card or internal memorySelect multiple files at once Browse photo collections, music and video in one placeManage, installation and uninstall applications, as well as explore the structure of files within apps Open, read, extract and decipher ZIP files, 7ZIP, RAR and TARLight, dark and black background Material design interface Where ExcelsSolid Explorer covers almost all beats you would expect from an almost flawless file manager. Collections allow you to view all your photos, music and videos in one place. You can connect your cloud storage accounts like Dropbox to manage your files remotely. It also has support for remote access protocols like FTP and you can also use it as root file manager. Even for advanced users, you pack a punch. On top of all this, it is also beautiful. While most files managers have a design blocked somewhere between 2009 and the Stone Age, Solid Explorer makes it a priority to join Google's Material Design spec. You can also customize your themes and colors and also choose from light and dark themes, because there is really no reason why a file manager should blind. Where it falls short While we prefer to choose a free app when we can, Solid Explorer does not fall into that field. You can try it for free for two weeks, but after that, you will have to sgusciate $2 to continue using it. At the top of this, the company also costs some plugins like Mega, and also offers additional icon packages for more money. This is annoying, but most add-ons are free or optional. The positive side is that at least you know where Solid Explorer is getting his money. Since our last choice has been drawn for the addition of sketched adware, we will call it a mixed blessing, rather than a wrong negative. The free version of es file explorer may have lost our recommendation, but if you do not want to say goodbye, you should at least check es file explorer pro. for $2.99, all embedded apps "suggestions" and junkware are removed, and there are no ads. still has all the bells and whistles we liked, including remote file access, zip support and an app manager. Of course, most of these same features are in solid explorer for $1 less. fx file explorer is also a great option for users who love the design of es file explorer, but do not want the trash. The free version covers the basis of local file management, while you can pay $2.99 to unlock advanced features such as cloud or network storage and an app manager. for basic users, the free version gives a board on solid explorer, but advanced users will end up paying slightly more for big guns. Although, at the time of this writing, fx file explorer is running a sale, bringing the price up to $1.99, specifically targeting court users of es file explorer. It is also worth noting that if you do not need much from your file manager, android n will have covered you as well. google started building a basic file manager in the system itself. you can copy and move files, rename files and folders, and create new folders all within the system itself. is a cry away from the advanced features of other applications in this list, and Android n is not yet released, but if you are one of the few running the nor are reading this in the future from an Android N device, you may not need a full file manager app. Thanks to these seven applications, your smartphone has become smarter: We rounded out the fastest ways to book a haircut appointment, arrange lipsticks, and more. 21 August 2014 Photos: Courtesy of Skinbetter, L'Oréal, Beautybooked, Think Dirty, Facetune, Stash, Drugstore Dupes, Modiface(Free) You don't even have to upload a photo: Makeup Genius applies everything, from cat eyes, to bold red lipstick and to pink blush (or all three!) in—get this—real time. Using the front camera of the smartphone, the application scans 64 points on the face to slide perfectly on lipstick, blush, eye shadow and lining. Because everything happens live, you can test every look on different angles, which is, well, just brilliant. Available for iPhone(Free)Full disclosure: We collaborated with SkinBetter to create this, but we think you will be equally impressed by the high-tech skin analysis tool as we were. Just take a photo of yourself, create a skin profile, and let the app do its thing: Use dermatologist-grade scanning technology to identify your skin's biggest problems (including wrinkles, redness and dark spots), so you need recommendations for products that will treat them. Everything happens in a few seconds, and you can also buy products directly on site! Available for iPhone and Android.(Free)If you live in New York City, L.A., Houston, or Dallas, BeautyBooked is a good place to start your ownfor a salon or a spa, and we are not just saying that because it has reviews of Allure Directory. You can navigate with the name of the salon or the treatment, check reviews (from us and other users), browse the photos of salon and spa, and book a service, even for a particular designer or technical, directly through the app. And if you don't live in New York, Los Angeles, Houston or Dallas, stay tuned: More cities will be coming soon! Available for iPhone(Free)Before your mind freezes in the gutter, this application determines how toxic your beauty products are—a pretty brilliant idea, since the details of the ingredients are not always easy to find. Scan a product's barcode or search for the product name database; the application ranks its ingredients from one to ten on a "Dirty Meter", as well as offering greener alternatives. The library is not the most extensive, but you can send products not displayed for consideration while scanning through your vanity. Available for iPhone($2.99)We know, Photoshopping an iPhone photo only so you can post it on Instagram is a bit much. But FaceTune offers an impressive suite of editing tools - no computer needed. It is possible to smooth the carnations, make zits disappear, the red eye correct, and illuminate the teeth so fast, it is hardly at high maintenance. Available for iPhone, Android and Windows Phone (Free)According to an allure.com survey, 38 percent of women have too many products to count in their makeup bag. Insert this application, which tracks not only mascaras, lipsticks, andbut also all your products for the care of skin and hair. stores information, like when you bought a product and how full it is, so anticipate when you are running out. sends you a reminder to recharge, and when it's time, you can buy a replacement within the app through retailers including Soap.com, sephora, saks and walmart. And if that's not enough, the app will cover from more than 30 magazines and blogs – allure.com included – so you never have to miss a new product review. available for iPhone($2.99)This application is the ticket for beauty lovers who buy on a budget, combining products worthy of splurge with cheaper versions of the pharmacy. is not perfect (the search function is quite naked-bone, so we prefer to scroll through the individual category lists of the app.) but puts cheap product recommendations for hair, makeup, skin, nails and tools all in one place. available for iPhone(Free)In addition to wondering what would seem like a blonde? modiface has the answer. Unlike some test-it-on apps, this not only drop a lame overlap of a preconfigured hairstyle on the top of your photo; actually changes the color of the hair in the image that matters. and 'easy, too: just load a selfie, draw the hairstyle with the finger (so the application knows where to apply the chosen shadow.) and choose from one of the 30 blonde, brown, and red hair-color options. download the premium version to unlock 20 more shades. available for iPhone, Android and windows phonekeywordsbeauty trendsbellexperts apps
