Meanwhile, the Intelligence unit investigates a shooting that involves a five-year-old child. While dealing with police brutality, Atwater suggests not to engage in physical altercations with the suspect, to Voight's dismay. Also, Voight is introduced to the new Deputy Superintendent, Samantha Miller (guest star Nicole Ari Parker). Later, Atwater gets into a blowup with Voight over the way the police confront suspects, and Voight tells Atwater to find another job if he wants to argue about how the Intelligence Unit runs. Later, Atwater is attacked by several unknown people and is left struggling to get back up. 1502"White Knuckle"Nicole RubioGwen SiganNovember 18, 2020 (2020-11-18)6.38[5] After a local and highly respected alderman's son is suspected of murder, Miller tries to pressure Voight into charging the teen quickly and quietly without him being suspected of racial favoring. Meanwhile, Atwater and Voight continue to have disagreements on how to handle the racial insensitivity Atwater is experiencing within the police department. Sgt. Nolan's ongoing harassment against Atwater continues to escalate, and things come to a head when Ruzek is wounded due to patrol officers not responding to Atwater's unit's requests for backup. Faced with losing his badge or accepting a deal that would hinder his career, Atwater takes a third option when he confronts and threatens to sue Nolan and the Chicago Police Department if the hazing continues while the crooked cop agrees to back off. 1513"Tender Age"Erqi La SalleGwen SiganJanuary 13, 2021 (2021-01-13)6.58[6] While on patrol, Burgess and Ruzek discover a little girl wandering the streets alone and also discover that her family had been murdered and she is the only witness. Though awkward at first, Burgess is able to get the girl, Makayla, to open up and forms a bond with her. The unit soon learns that Makayla's biological father was responsible for the murders because he was trying to get his daughter back. After he is apprehended, Burgess bids farewell to Makayla as she goes to live with family and expresses to Ruzek that she still harbors a desire for motherhood but is uncertain of her ability to be both a mother and a cop due to her previous miscarriage. Meanwhile, Upton is offered a job with the FBI in New York but turns it down and finally expresses her feelings for Halstead, which leads to him kissing her. 1524"Unforgiven"Chad SaxtonRick Eid & Gavin HarrisJanuary 27, 2021 (2021-01-27)5.97[7] The Intelligence unit investigates the murder of a Chicago police officer. However, surveillance photos lead the detectives in a different direction to a domestic abuse victim that the officer was assisting, and they soon realize that her abusive ex-boyfriend was the true culprit. Meanwhile, Voight struggles to get the Deputy Superintendent on board with the investigation. Also, Upton and Halstead reignite their romance, and Upton finds herself unable to face her father due to his abusive history after learning he has suffered a medical emergency. 1535"In Your Care"Charles S. CarrollGwen SiganFebruary 3, 2021 (2021-02-03)6.09[8] The Intelligence Unit investigates a rash of violent carjackings and learns that the offenders are a group of foster teens and members of a teen prostitution ring who have aged out of the fostering system or will soon. After apprehending one of them, Burgess learns that the teens are robbing their Johns in the hopes of building a better life for themselves and finds herself conflicted, believing that the system has let them down. In addition to this investigation, Burgess learns that Makayla's (the girl she helped two episodes earlier) cousin has been unable to care for her, leading Burgess to make an impulsive and potentially life-changing decision. 1546"Equal Justice"Eric LanevilleDaniel ArkinFebruary 10, 2021 (2021-02-10)6.31[9] While on a stakeout, the Intelligence Unit's cover gets blown while finding a man who is caught selling heroin. The event was caught on video and uploaded to social media. When the footage goes viral, Ruzek and Atwater are ambushed at the CPD safehouse, forcing Voight to think that there's an inside job. After Deputy Superintendent Miller argues that the CPD should go by the books when it comes to police work, Voight tries to resist his normal tendencies when it comes to his way of investigating. Miller asks Voight to include a suspended Detective, who was leading the original investigation, for help but Voight later has cause to worry that she may get too involved in it. 16113"Trouble Dolls"John PolsonScott GoldMay 5, 2021 (2021-05-05)5.67[16] The Intelligence investigates the brutal murder of a young pregnant woman involved illegally in an fake adoption ring.
