Can you go back and forth between disneyland and california adventure

ANAHEIM, Calif. The "Happiest Square on Earth" reopened Friday, bringing back the magic of Disneyland and California Adventure after an unprecedented 13-month closure in what tourism officials hope is a sign of the rebound of the state from the pandemic. Some visitors applauded and screamed for happiness while entering Disneyland, with gates opening an hour before 8:00. AIR7 HD was above the park as fans lined early Friday morning, with some campsites outside the previous night. The day began with Disney officials and park employees wearing face coverings gathered in the park square for the morning flag-raising ceremony. CEO of Disney Bob Chapek thanked the color guard for raising the flag every day during the closing of 412 days and asked employees to "bring the magic back" for visitors who are about to enter the park. "We're not just another place. We're not just another theme park. We are something special and we are something special because of all of you, because you bring magic to the world," he said. WATCH: AIR7 HD offers Disneyland views in front of the great reopening For now, capacity is limited to 25% for both parks, and admission is limited to California residents only and those with early reservations. Face coverings are also necessary for all ages 2 and older. The park now has hand sanitation stations and signs that remind visitors to maintain distance and wear masks. The counters are marked as "designed dining zones" where visitors can remove face coveringsEat. Those with a Park Hopper ticket select the first park they want to visit to start the day and then be admitted to the other park after the day after 13.00. Fast Pass is currently on break. Currently, park tickets are available until June 30. Some attractions are temporarily waiting, including the parade, scenic shows and spectacular nightlife to avoid great crowds. But this did not prevent fans from waking up early to wait online for the reopening of the theme park Anaheim. "Because you don't know the trial. We know that it opens at 9:00, we know that security will open at 6:00, but we don't know what training means between the parking facility and here and how it will end. They leave only a certain amount of people on Main Street and then you have to wait outside the gate?" said Casi Amarapio. "We don't know. So we'd rather be safe than sorry. It's open until 7:00, so you want to come in every minute. "Fans, some of whom entered the park with tears of joy flowing along their face, could not contain their excitement. "I spent a lot of time here in my life. This year without really hard work," said host Cara Beigel while fighting tears. "I went in, and it's just... I'm home. It's good to be back." A pair of Boyle Heights was probably the first to be engaged in the park in the middle of its reopening. A surprise for guests is an enhanced Snow White attraction. The frightening adventures of Snow White were reproduced in the enchanted Snow WhiteMuch brighter, said city spokesman Mike Lyster. "The trip before was a little dark. But it's definitely brighter and more recent. "The classic attraction has been revisited with new music, black LED lighting and a new animation system, officials said. It also has about 50 new figures. King Arthur's ride was restored in its original color, and the Mansion haunted has some new additions. The reopening of the park marked the return to work for 15,000 cast members, which Disneyland held a soft opening first in the week. The reopening is also "a monumental day for Anaheim", said Lyster. Disneyland reopens: What attractions, restaurants that people can visit when the park reopens on April 30"We saw the fans return to the Angel Stadium, the Honda Center, and now we are hosting youth sports at the Anaheim Convention Center, but of course, Disneyland is so great and so significant. "The closure of Disneyland last year "has brought home how severe pandemic was," Lyster said. "So its reopening comes as the brightest moment in the last 14 months or as the cases are coming down and the vaccines are coming. "Orange County Board Vice President Doug Chaffee, which represents the theme park, said that the reopening is "very lifting. "My God, the works are coming back," he said. "The affairs that feed on Disney will be able to start over, and at night we will see the Snow White Castle turn on. Wow, it's a lighthouse. We like it. It's a stimulating view. "This is a monumental day for Anaheim, 'mayor harry sidhu said. "We all lost the joy of disneyland, and we are so happy to have it back. but this means much more for working families, small businesses and our city, the impact of having the theme parks closed for more than 13 months because of the pandemic was devastating. This begins our economic recovery and brings hope to anaheim. frank kim, managing director of the county of orange, said that the reopening of the theme park "is a good sign for the county of orange heading in the summer months. we are beginning to see the benefits of widespread California vaccination as a whole. ... we think it's a good opportunity to start reintegrating those elements of our economy. ... we are a tourism-based economy and we have to find a way to safely reopen those recovery opportunities. 'the reopening will play especially at hotels around the theme park, said lyster. disneyland awakens castle of sleeping beauty the city has about 75 hotels, and half of them were closed for the last year, lyster said. "the other half was scraped with a minimum occupation, said lyster. "Now we have heard that some could be almost full in the next few days. 'disneyland, which is only open to Californians for the moment, attracts many visitors from the bay area, lyster said. "probably number one of the year is North California,' lyster said of guests outside the city. "We welcome you. we know that it will generate hotel stays for us. 'lyster was able to make a sneak-peek visit to the theme park this week and wasfrom the number of social-distancing markers around Disneyland. "The first thing you really notice from the moment you enter is the floor markers everywhere,' Lyster said, adding there are many employees available to guide visitors. Also, all the waiting for attractions and trips is made outdoors, Lyster said. " Yesterday I had a rocket on Space Mountain," Lyster said, noting the limited capacity of 25%. Most commonly you'll be in front and another party on the back. "Visitors, Orange County hotel excited for reopening this week Disneyland There were also many other employees dressed as popular Disney characters to help create the atmosphere as there will not be parades for the moment, Lyster said.
