Check out our guides below for more information: Balance Druid Addons Guide Balance Druid Macros Guide 7. Balance Druid Quests and Weapons When leveling, keep an eye out for weapon upgrades - they'll significantly improve your experience! You'll also need to complete various class quests. To fully utilize your animal forms, you'll need to complete specific quests that may vary depending on whether you're a Horde or Alliance Druid. Additionally, early quest differences exist between Horde races. For assistance with both weapons and quests, we've created two dedicated guides: the Druid Weapons Guide and the Druid Quests Guide. Once you reach maximum level (Level 80), we recommend diving into our Balance Druid Guide, which covers everything you need to know about playing Balance in the end game. Specifically, be sure to read through these pages for a more detailed understanding of playing Balance beyond Level 80. We've also developed guides for class quests and leveling weapon suggestions below, detailing talent builds for all playstyles and their rotations. As far as general Wrath leveling advice goes, this guide will focus on providing a clear skill and gear path to Level 80 in Wrath Classic. While it won't detail every single quest or optimal leveling routes, you'll find detailed information on class quests and leveling weapon suggestions here. Druids have two primary leveling options: Balance or Feral. Balance is a ranged DPS caster, suitable for pulling enemies from a distance and killing them before they can cause significant damage. Once Starfall is obtained, you can reliably pull multiple masses of enemies at once, making it an excellent leveler with talents also suited for healing in leveling dungeons. Feral, on the other hand, is a melee DPS, ideal for quickly killing individual enemies with minimal downtime due to instant Mana regeneration while killing and Predatory Strikes providing instant casts after finishers. Its talents are also beneficial for tanking in leveling dungeons when needed. A pure Restoration or Feral Tank talent build is not recommended during leveling as it's unnecessary for healing/tanking in leveling dungeons, but can be done with a quick look at the link below for a Restoration leveling build. Druids are versatile characters that can tank, deal damage, and heal with ease, making them a valuable asset to any team. For example, they can use their Predatory Strikes and Nurturing Instinct abilities to provide noteworthy healing. Balance Druids also make excellent supporters, boasting impressive AoE capabilities for quick dungeon clearing and decent healing talents when needed. When it comes to leveling professions, it's highly beneficial to start early, as this allows you to naturally level them up without extra work at maximum level. Gathering professions like Skinning, Herbalism, and Mining are recommended, as they generate gold without requiring initial investment. It's also a good idea to learn First Aid for Mana-sustain purposes. As you level up, focus on gear with Agility or Strength for Feral Druids, and Intellect, Spell Power, and Crit or Haste for Balance Druids. Utilizing macros and addons can significantly simplify the leveling process. Additionally, choosing the right weapon is crucial, as it greatly impacts your character's Attack Power and Spell Power. Completing important class-specific quests is also vital, as they provide rewards like animal forms and new active abilities. Upon reaching level 80, you can progress your Druid by specializing in Restoration for healing, Feral DPS for melee damage, Feral Tank for tanking, or Balance for casting. By following these guidelines and checking out the available guides, you can optimize your Druid's performance and make the most of your WoW experience. Please refrain from sharing UI elements or screenshots from the modelviewer or character selection screen, as they will be declined upon submission. However, high-quality images submitted through the designated screenshot guidelines will be considered and reviewed. You can provide a link to your video by typing its URL below.
