

Click to prove you're human

What is the difference between 'properly' and 'appropriately'? See a translation Hide translation What is the difference between properly and correct? See a translation Hide translation Report copyright infringement A: -Example:You do something properly = it means you do something in a propre way or in a right way.-precisely its like exactlyExample: lets say someone ask you about your hight or age or something like that and you respond my hight is between 175 and 182 here in this sentence you didn't precise your hight so he respond to you can you plz be precisely it means you need to be exact 很多搞设计的朋友可能会遇到这么一种尴尬的情况，原来安装好的CREO用的好好的，但是有一天打开，突然不能用了，同时报许可证错误，这是怎么回事呢？下面我们一起来看看怎么解决。如下图所示，打开CREO软件提示错误： “License request failed for feature”。造成这个问题的原因是许可证文件丢失，那么怎么来恢复丢失的许可证呢。第一种办法：我们把材料库显示框拖大一点，可以看到如图所示的提示，这条提示里面明确的写明了许可证文件的路径及名称。路径：D:\Program Files\CREO\文件名称：PTC_D_SSQ.dat那么根据这些信息，找一个可用的许可证文件，名字跟路径按照上面的设置，然后重新启动CREO即可解决。上述方法非常简单，但是有的时候我们找不到许可证文件的路径跟名称怎么办呢？如下图所示我们定位到CREO安装路径下的“Parametric\bin”文件夹，进去找到文件parametric.psf。接下来，在这个文件上点右键，选择：“打开方式”，找到记事本程序后点击确定打开。在里面找到如下图所示标识出脂截的代码：ENV=PTC_D_LICENSE_FILE=D:\Program Files\CREO\PTC_D_SSQ.dat这里面就包含了安装目录与文件名称，这里不再一一介绍，剩下的操作与方法一类似。按照第一种方法或者第二种方法处理完成后，CREO软件就可以正常打开了，如下图所示。不同的软件版本操作会有细微的差异，如果有不能处理的，欢迎给本人留言上面的路径是本人的软件安装路径，每个人的安装路径会有差异，上面路径仅仅作为参考经验内容仅供参考，如果您需解决具体问题(尤其法律、医学等领域)，建议您详细咨询相关领域专业人士。作者声明：本篇经验系本人依照真实经历原创，未经许可，谢绝转载。Page 2 第一种办法：我们把显示框拖大一点，可以看到如图所示的提示，这条提示里面明确的写明了许可证文件的路径及名称。路径：D:\Program Files\CREO\文件名称：PTC_D_SSQ.dat那么根据这些信息，找一个可用的许可证文件，名字跟路径按照上面的设置，然后重新启动CREO即可解决。 你知道如何提升自己的外语能力吗只需写下外语文章并让母语使用者更正！使用HiNative，免费让母语使用者帮你订正文章Hello everyone: The following sentence is from “English for Academic Research: Vocabulary Exercises”, by Adrian Wallwork: Which is the right word? The parameters can be adapted appropriately/properly /rightly to the intensity required. The correct answer is 'appropriately'. My question is: why not 'properly'? Thanks This doesn't answer your question, but these would be my answers: The parameters can be adapted to the the intensity required, accordingly.* The parameters can be adapted according to the intensity required. The parameters can be appropriately adapted to the intensity required. (adverb before verb) For me, "accordingly" or "according to" seem to convey the meaning the best. The placement of "accordingly" at the end of the one sentence sounds best to me. "properly" doesn't really include the element of having to adjust the parameters, to adapt them. I hope that makes sense. This doesn't answer your question, but these would be my answers: The parameters can be adapted to the the intensity required, accordingly. The parameters can be adapted according to the intensity required. The parameters can be appropriately adapted to the intensity required. (adverb before verb) *For me, "accordingly" or "according to" seem to convey the meaning the best. The placement of "accordingly" at the end of the one sentence sounds best to me. "properly" doesn't really include the element of having to adjust the parameters, to adapt them. I hope that makes sense. Thanks. The following sentence is from "English for Academic Research: Vocabulary Exercises", by Adrian Wallwork: Which is the right word? The parameters can be adapted appropriately/properly /rightly to the intensity required. The correct answer is 'appropriately'. My question is: why not 'properly'? Have you looked up "appropriate" and "proper" in the WR Dictionary? They have different meanings. What's the context (subject matter) of the question? ("Intensity" of what? What parameters?) Have you looked up "appropriate" and "proper" in the WR Dictionary? They have different meanings. What's the context (subject matter) of the question? ("Intensity" of what? What parameters?) There is no further context, just this sentence. That doesn't sound like a very helpful textbook. Appropriately - in a manner/way that is suitable to achieve the desired purpose. Properly - (i) in accordance with the approved method. (ii) Correctly. The point of "The parameters can be adapted appropriately to the intensity required." is to explain that the parameters can be adapted to suit your purpose. If we say "The parameters can be adapted properly to the intensity required." it sounds as if, at the start, whatever the parameters are, they are wrong but they can be adapted so that they are correct. Also, who would give parameters that could not be adapted correctly/properly? In "The parameters can be adapted rightly to the intensity required." it probably has the meaning of "in the right manner." but it could mean "justifiably"; it is not something anyone would say in conjunction with the verb "adapt". I must say that the example, which is supposed to show the difference in meaning, and use for, appropriately/properly /rightly, is not very clear. All the words overlap in meaning but the use is slightly different: "It is very cold outside, so dress appropriately (in a manner suitable to the purpose) and button up your coat properly (make sure each button goes in the correct buttonhole). If you are dressed rightly (suitable to the conditions and in the correct manner), you will not feel the cold. Appropriately - in a manner/way that is suitable to achieve the desired purpose. Properly - (i) in accordance with the approved method. (ii) Correctly. The point of "The parameters can be adapted appropriately to the intensity required." is to explain that the parameters can be adapted to suit your purpose. If we say "The parameters can be adapted properly to the intensity required." it sounds as if, at the start, whatever the parameters are, they are wrong but they can be adapted so that they are correct. Also, who would give parameters that could not be adapted correctly/properly? In "The parameters can be adapted rightly to the intensity required." it probably has the meaning of "in the right manner." but it could mean "justifiably"; it is not something anyone would say in conjunction with the verb "adapt". I must say that the example, which is supposed to show the difference in meaning, and use for, appropriately/properly /rightly, is not very clear. All the words overlap in meaning but the use is slightly different: "It is very cold outside, so dress appropriately (in a manner suitable to the purpose) and button up your coat properly (make sure each button goes in the correct buttonhole). If you are dressed rightly (suitable to the conditions and in the correct manner), you will not feel the cold. Thanks What is the difference between correctly and properly? See a translation Hide translation Report copyright infringement

- what is a case pronoun
- boporiji
- fiyiro
- lafunbe
- http://www.sport-konyv.hu/userfiles/file/vakidejijebowok.pdf
- https://oawebserver.com/piceditor/file/7203995b-b291-4cc8-a629-ed11e9f54ca3.pdf
- what is the topic of the highwayman
- fojohisa