

Click to verify

Plan eurodisney pdf

The Motorsport Images Collections captures events from 1895 to today's most recent coverage.Discover The CollectionCurated, compelling, and worth your time. Explore our latest gallery of Editors' Picks.Browse Editors' FavoritesExperience AI-Powered CreativityThe Motorsport Images Collections captures events from 1895 to today's most recent coverage.Discover The CollectionCurated, compelling, and worth your time. Explore our latest gallery of Editors' Picks.Browse Editors' FavoritesExperience AI-Powered CreativityShare — copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format for any purpose, even commercially. Adapt — remix, transform, and build upon the material for any purpose, even commercially. The licensor cannot revoke these freedoms as long as you follow the license terms. Attribution — You must give appropriate credit , provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made . You may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggests the licensor endorses you or your use. ShareAlike — If you remix, transform, or build upon the material, you must distribute your contributions under the same license as the original. No additional restrictions — You may not apply legal terms or technological measures that legally restrict others from doing anything the license permits. You do not have to comply with the license for elements of the material in the public domain or where your use is permitted by an applicable exception or limitation. No warranties are given. The license may not give you all the permissions necessary for your use. For example, public display, priority, or moral rights may limit how you use material. Planning a trip to Disneyland Paris? One of the best ways to ensure you make the most of your visit is the Disneyland Paris map. This handy guide can help you navigate the sprawling park, locate your favorite attractions, and make your magical day stress-free. Whether you're visiting for the first time or are a seasoned Disney fan, understanding how to use the Disneyland Paris map effectively is key to a smooth and enjoyable experience.To dive deeper into planning your Disneyland Paris trip, check out this comprehensive Disneyland Paris guide, packed with everything you need to know.Disneyland Paris is home to two parks: Disneyland Park and Walt Disney Studios Park. Each park offers a wide variety of attractions, shows, dining options, and themed areas. The Disneyland Paris map is more than just a tool for finding your way; it's your gateway to discovering hidden gems and ensuring you don't miss any must-see experiences.Here's why you'll want to keep a map on hand:Plan Your Day: Use the map to prioritize attractions and avoid unnecessary walking. For a full list of rides and attractions, explore this list of all the rides at Disneyland Paris. Locate Amenities: Restrooms, baby car centers, restaurants, and shops are all marked on the map. Stay Oriented: With so many themed lands and winding paths, it's easy to lose your bearings. The map ensures you always know where you are. Accessibility Features: If you or someone in your group needs accessibility accommodations, the map highlights services like wheelchair-friendly routes and companion restrooms.The Disneyland Paris map is divided into two main sections, one for each park. Here's a closer look at what you'll find:Disneyland Park is the heart of Disneyland Paris and is divided into five magical lands:Main Street, U.S.A.This is the first area you'll encounter. It's filled with shops, restaurants, and the charm of early 20th-century America. The map marks popular spots like the Emporium and the Town Square Gazebo. FrontierlandStep into the Wild West and find attractions like Big Thunder Mountain and Phantom Manor. The map will guide you to dining options like The Lucky Nugget Saloon. AdventurelandExplore pirate-themed adventures and jungle treks. Key highlights on the map include Pirates of the Caribbean and Indiana Jones and the Temple of Peril. FantasylandA favorite for families with young children, Fantasyland is home to iconic rides like "It's a Small World" and Peter Pan's Flight. The map also points out the enchanting Sleeping Beauty Castle. DiscoverylandThis futuristic land features attractions like Star Wars Hyperspace Mountain and Buzz Lightyear Laser Blast. Use the map to plan your exploration of these intergalactic adventures. The Walt Disney Studios Park focuses on the magic of movies and television. It's divided into themed areas, each marked on the map:Front Lot: The entrance area with Hollywood-inspired architecture and dining options. Toon Studio: Home to Pixar favorites like Ratatouille: The Adventure. Production Courtyard: Where you'll find attractions like The Twilight Zone Tower of Terror. Avengers Campus: A Marvel-themed area featuring Spider-Man W.E.B. Adventure and Avengers Assemble: Flight Force.For insider tips to maximize your time at both parks, don't miss this guide to essential Disneyland Paris tips.When you arrive, physical maps are available at the entrance of both parks. These are updated regularly to reflect any changes, such as seasonal events or new attractions.For tech-savvy visitors, the Disneyland Paris app offers a digital version of the map. The app is incredibly useful because it includes real-time updates on:Wait times for attractions Show schedules Dining reservations Location-based services to help you navigate more easilyPlanning ahead? Visit the Disneyland Paris website to download a map or use this FastPass guide for Disneyland Paris to learn how to streamline your visit.Start Your Day EarlyArrive at the park with a strategy in mind. Use the map to decide which attractions to hit first based on their popularity and proximity. Take Advantage of FastPass (or Disney Premier Access/Locate FastPass-enabled rides on the map and plan your schedule around these time-saving tools. Designate Meeting PointsIf you're traveling with a group, use the map to pick clear meeting spots in case anyone gets separated. Use the App for Real-Time NavigationCombine the physical map with the app for a seamless experience. The app's GPS can guide you straight to your next destination. Explore Hidden DetailsThe map not only highlights major attractions but also smaller, magical details. Look out for charming photo spots and secret pathways.The Disneyland Paris map is an indispensable tool for your magical day. Whether you prefer a physical copy or the convenience of a digital version, the map ensures you can navigate the parks with ease, discover all the attractions, and create magical memories.By taking the time to understand the map and plan your day, you'll spend less time wandering and more time enjoying everything Disneyland Paris has to offer. So grab a map, pack your excitement, and get ready to explore the magic of Disneyland Paris!This is the Disneyland Paris map you can download for free here.Disneyland Paris MapDownload Walt Disney Studios is the second park of Disneyland resort. It opened in 2002, 10 years after Disneyland Paris. It extends over 27 hectares and has 17 attractions spread across Front Lot, Production Courtyard, Backlot, Toon Studio, Hollywood Boulevard and Toy Story Playland. The Walt Disney Studios Park is a Walt Disney Company theme park located in the Val d'Europe area in Marne-la-Vallée, Seine-et-Marne (France). Originally inaugurated on the theme of cinema, television, special effects and animation, it continues to evolve to focus on cinema themes and even more on those of the newest Disney Studios such as Pixar, Marvel and Star Wars. Less large than Disneyland Park, the attractions present at the opening of Walt Disney Studios were for the most part exclusive to the park in 2002 with original creations such as Animagique, Cinémaquique or Moteurs, Actions! (now closed). The park has evolved at its own pace to gradually grow its own identity. Over time, new Disney attractions were successively introduced at Walt Disney Studios with Crush's Coaster, the Tower of Terror, Toy Story Playland and Ratatouille: Remy's Totally Crazy Adventure. Walt Disney Studios' attractions are numerous. Front Lot : Toon Studio : Animagique◊ Theater Art of Disney Animation◊ Four Wheeler Rally Cars◊ Crush's Coaster◊ The Flying Carpets - Flying Carpets Over Agrabah◊ Toy Soldiers Parachute Drop◊ Ratatouille: Remy's Totally Knockout Adventure◊ RC Racer◊ Slinky Dog Zigzag Spin◊ Production Courtyard : Disney Junior Live!◊ Cinémaquique◊ Stitch Live!◊ Studio Tram Tour : Behind the Magic◊ The Twilight Zone Tower of Terror◊◊ Backlot: Armageddon: Special Effects Engineers...◊ Action!◊ Stunt Show◊ Specular◊ Rock 'n' Roller Coaster◊ Aerobics◊ Without Disneyland Park decided to stop contributing printed maps in June 2023, they can't wait to explore the Avengers Campus and check out the Marvel attractions? The paper map will help you find the quickest route through Walt Disney Studios. Like the previous map, this one create magical memories.By taking the time to understand the map and plan your day, you'll spend less time wandering and more time enjoying everything Disneyland Paris has to offer. So grab a map, pack your excitement, and get ready to explore the magic of Disneyland Paris!This is the Disneyland Paris map you can download for free here.Disneyland Paris MapDownload Walt Disney Studios is the second park of Disneyland resort. It opened in 2002, 10 years after Disneyland Paris. It extends over 27 hectares and has 17 attractions spread across Front Lot, Production Courtyard, Backlot, Toon Studio, Hollywood Boulevard and Toy Story Playland. The Walt Disney Studios Park is a Walt Disney Company theme park located in the Val d'Europe area in Marne-la-Vallée, Seine-et-Marne (France). Originally inaugurated on the theme of cinema, television, special effects and animation, it continues to evolve to focus on cinema themes and even more on those of the newest Disney Studios such as Pixar, Marvel and Star Wars. Less large than Disneyland Park, the attractions present at the opening of Walt Disney Studios were for the most part exclusive to the park in 2002 with original creations such as Animagique, Cinémaquique or Moteurs, Actions! (now closed). The park has evolved at its own pace to gradually grow its own identity. Over time, new Disney attractions were successively introduced at Walt Disney Studios with Crush's Coaster, the Tower of Terror, Toy Story Playland and Ratatouille: Remy's Totally Crazy Adventure. Walt Disney Studios' attractions are numerous. Front Lot : Toon Studio : Animagique◊ Theater Art of Disney Animation◊ Four Wheeler Rally Cars◊ Crush's Coaster◊ The Flying Carpets - Flying Carpets Over Agrabah◊ Toy Soldiers Parachute Drop◊ Ratatouille: Remy's Totally Knockout Adventure◊ RC Racer◊ Slinky Dog Zigzag Spin◊ Production Courtyard : Disney Junior Live!◊ Cinémaquique◊ Stitch Live!◊ Studio Tram Tour : Behind the Magic◊ The Twilight Zone Tower of Terror◊◊ Backlot: Armageddon: Special Effects Engineers...◊ Action!◊ Stunt Show◊ Specular◊ Rock 'n' Roller Coaster◊ Aerobics◊ Without Disneyland Park decided to stop contributing printed maps in June 2023, they can't wait to explore the Avengers Campus and check out the Marvel attractions? The paper map will help you find the quickest route through Walt Disney Studios. Like the previous map, this one is available in French and English. Download the Walt Disney plan Park Hey you! What about sharing this post to your friends to thank us ? Le Resort de Disneyland Paris est immense et s'étend sur plus de 22km². Afin de préparer votre visite, voici à votre disposition les plans de toutes les zones de Disneyland Paris. Ces cartes indiquent toutes les attractions disponibles mais également les lieux importants comme les endroits de spectacles, les hôtels, les accès piétons etc. En cliquant sur un plan, vous obtiendrez le plan en plus grande qualité.Ces cartes peuvent être téléchargées et imprimées afin que vous puissiez apporter vos propres annotations et ainsi préparer votre séjour au mieux. Une fois le fichier téléchargé, vous devez le décompresser. Les plans sont au format pdf et peuvent facilement être imprimés. Si besoin, télécharger le logiciel Acrobat Reader gratuitement pour visualiser les plans.Cliquez pour zoomer. Comprenez la liste des attractions classées par land et par couleurCliquez pour zoomer. Cartes complètes du parc, avec l'ajout des nouvelles attractions et du Avengers Campus.Cliquez pour zoomer. Carte de l'ensemble de Disneyland Paris. Cela vous permet de voir les emplacements de tous les parcs, des hôtels, et des accès routiers.Toutes les informations sur les hôtels ici.Carte de l'emplacement de chaque hôtel de Disneyland ParisToutes les informations sur le parking Disney icelle site officiel Disney met à disposition, avec google maps, le plan interactif. Grâce à leur carte, vous pouvez faire afficher au non, les services, hôtels, attractions, piscines, restaurants, coin bébé, personnages... Bref tout. L'inconvénient est qu'il est impossible de télécharger ou imprimer la carte interactive. Voici tout de même le lien vers le site officiel. Tout aussi simplement, vous pouvez profiter des fonctionnalités avancées de Google Maps pour visualiser les plans et les emplacements de toutes les points d'intérêts de Disneyland Paris.Grâce au lien, vous pouvez télécharger l'application sur votre mobile, elle contient une carte interactive très pratique. Ce plan, portable sur votre permet, grâce à la géolocalisation de vous guidez entre les attractions. Cette carte permet également de connaître les horaires et temps d'attente des attractions, Entertainment resort in Marne-la-Vallée, France Disneyland ParisPreviously known as the Euro Disney Resort and ParisDisneyland ParisSleeping Beauty Castle in Disneyland Paris, FranceParkLocationMarne-la-Vallée, FranceCoordinates48°52'07"N 2°46'55"E 48.86661°N 2.78194°E 48.86661; 2.78194StatusOperatingOpened12 April 1992; 33 years ago (1992-04-12)OwnerDisney Experiences(The Walt Disney Company)Attendance375 million (overall as of 2022)WebsiteDisneylandparis.com[1] Disneyland Paris Theme parks Disneyland ParkWalt Disney Studios Park Resort hotels Disneyland HotelDisney Hotel New York - The Art of MarvelDisney Newport Bay ClubDisney Sequoia LodgeDisney Hotel CheyenneDisney Hotel Santa FeDisney Davy Crockett RanchDisney VillageGolf DisneylandVal d'Europe vite Disneyland Paris is an entertainment resort in Marne-la-Vallée, France, located about 32 kilometres (20 miles) east of Paris. It encompasses two theme parks, seven Disney-owned hotels, two convention centers, a golf course, an arena, and a shopping, dining and entertainment complex. Opened on 12 April 1992, the resort is operated by Disney Experiences, a division of the Walt Disney Company. It is the second Disney park outside the United States, following the opening of the Tokyo Disney Resort in 1983, and the largest. Disneyland Paris is also the only Disney resort outside of the United States to be completely owned by the company. Disneyland Park, opened in 1992, is the original theme park of the complex. A second theme park, Walt Disney Studios Park, opened in 2002. The resort is located on approximately 2,100 hectares (5,200 acres) of land which is being developed under a master agreement with French governmental authorities. About half of the land has been developed, including a planned community, Val d'Europe. Disneyland Paris is Europe's most-visited theme park,[2][3] and the largest single-site employer in France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning to invest $2.5 billion in the park's expansion. The company's 2023 Financial Times reported on 6 October 2019,[48] The park was burdened by its debt, which at the time was calculated at about €1.75 billion (US$2.2 billion), requiring 15 times its gross average earnings. Up to that point, Disney only held a minority ownership stake in the resort. In early 2017, the company purchased 9% of Euro Disney S.C.A., buying 9% from Kingdom Holding[9] and issued a tender offer of €2 per share for the remaining stock. This brought The Walt Disney Company's total ownership to 85.7%. [10] The Walt Disney company also invested an additional €1.5 billion to strengthen and develop Disneyland Paris.[10] In June 2017, Disney completed its tender offer and at the time owned over 97% of Euro Disney.[11] It then implemented a full buyout of the shares they did not already own.[12] In 2018, after taking full control of Disneyland Paris, Walt Disney reported its plans to invest €2 billion (US$2.47 billion) into the Disneyland Paris resort.[13][14][15] Following the success of Disneyland in California, plans to build a similar theme park in Europe emerged in 1966 with sites in Frankfurt, Paris, London or Milan under consideration.[16] Under the leadership of E. Cardon Walker, Tokyo Disneyland opened in 1983 in Japan with instant success, forming a catalyst for international expansion. In late 1984 the heads of Disney's theme park division, Dick Nunis and Jim Coia, presented a list of approximately 1,200 possible European locations for the park. Britain, France, Italy and Spain were all considered. However, Britain and Italy were dropped from the list due to both lacking a suitable expanse of flat land. By March 1985, the number of possible locations for the park had been reduced to four; two in France and two in Spain. Both nations saw the potential economic advantages of a Disney theme park and offered competing financing deals to Disney. Both Spanish sites were located near the Mediterranean and offered a subtropical climate similar to Disney's parks in California and Florida. Disney had asked each site to provide average temperatures for every month for the previous 40 years, but only Atlanta, France with 17,000 employees.[4][5] It generated a $343 million profit for Disney Company in 2023, a 35% increase from the year before.[7][13] The Walt Disney Company announced in 2023 that it was planning

2009. Retrieved 23 September 2009. ^ "Today In Disney History – August 21st". The Main Street Mouse. 12 August 2015. Retrieved 27 September 2023. ^ a b c Anthony, Robert (1993). Euro Disney: The First 100 Days. Harvard Business School. ASIN B0006R2N8Y-1. ^ "Disneyland, leader d'un secteur qui ne connaît pas la crise". La Tribune. 6 April 2012. Retrieved 26 August 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris fête ses 30 ans, les collectivités aussi". La Gazette des Communes. Retrieved 10 September 2023. ^ a b "Connaître Disney et l'État ont développé Val-d'Europe en 35 ans de collaboration". Le Parisien. 30 March 2022. Retrieved 10 September 2023. ^ Saving Euro Disney (YouTube). Offhand Disney. 12 June 2018. Event occurs at 2:50-3:05. Retrieved 11 October 2018. ^ Saving Euro Disney (YouTube). Offhand Disney. 12 June 2018. Event occurs at 3:24-3:34. Retrieved 11 October 2018. ^ a b "Thunderbird Case Studies: EuroDisneyland" (PDF). www.thunderbird.edu. Archived from the original (PDF) on 30 August 2006. Retrieved 5 March 2007. ^ JEFF CHU (18 March 2002). "Happily Ever After?". Time. Marne-La-Vallee. Archived from the original on 16 November 2005. Retrievd 23 September 2009. ^ "Disneyland Paris – Parcs d'attractions et Hôtels pour un séjour Disney". Parcoaland. Retrieved 29 September 2023. ^ a b Solarius. "Disneyland Paris Brief History". Solarius. Archived from the original on 11 February 2013. Retrieved 28 February 2013. ^ "25 Years Ago, All of These Disney Parks Projects Were Cancelled. Here's What Could've Been". 5 May 2017. ^ Saving Euro Disney (YouTube). Offhand Disney. 12 June 2018. Event occurs at 5:50-6:18. Retrieved 11 October 2018. ^ Saving Euro Disney (YouTube). Offhand Disney. 12 June 2018. Event occurs at 7:08-7:16. Retrieved 11 October 2018. ^ "INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS:Euro Disney Reports Profit for '95, but the Future Remains Cloudy". The New York Times. 16 November 1995. Archived from the original on 26 May 2015. Retrieved 27 June 2019. ^ Saving Euro Disney (YouTube). Offhand Disney. 12 June 2018. Event occurs at 7:20-7:26. Retrieved 11 October 2018. ^ "Euro Disney, S.C.A. Reports First Quarter Revenues for Fiscal Year 2005" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. 11 January 2005. Archived from the original (PDF) on 23 October 2014. Retrieved 12 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Reports Annual Results for Fiscal Year 2005" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 24 October 2014. Retrieved 12 March 2013. ^ "Disneyland sponsors New Year on ITV in bid to boost visitor numbers". London: Marketing Week. 11 December 2003. Retrieved 26 January 2025. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Disneyland Resort Paris Partners with the TGV East European Line" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 24 October 2014. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Disneyland Resort Paris Launches New European Advertising Campaign: "Believe in Your Dreams"" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 24 October 2014. Retrieved 18 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Reports Annual Results for Fiscal Year 2007" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 24 October 2014. Retrieved 18 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Effective launch of share consolidation" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 24 October 2014. Retrieved 18 March 2013. ^ Disneyland Resort Paris. "Disneyland Resort Paris Celebrates Its 200 millionth Visit" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 5 November 2013. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Announces Net Profit in Fiscal Year 2008" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 4 November 2015. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Disneyland Paris. "Come and Join Disneyland Paris!: The Search for Recruits continues around the UK" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 17 December 2014. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Disneyland Paris. "European Recruitment Tour: launching the new season at Disneyland Paris" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 4 November 2015. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Disneyland Paris. "Disneyland Paris Launches a Unique "Pop-up" Office Concept for its European Recruitment Drive" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 17 December 2014. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Reports Fiscal Year 2009 Results" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 16 September 2012. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Reports Fiscal Year 2010 Results" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 27 October 2011. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Euro Disney S.C.A. "Euro Disney group improves its debt profile with the 1.3 billion refinancing of the group's debt by The Walt Disney Company" (PDF). Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Euro Disney S.C.A. Archived from the original (PDF) on 27 November 2012. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Inter-Ministerial Delegation for the Euro Disney Project. "Inter-Ministerial Delegation for the Euro Disney Project". Disneyland Paris: Corporate. Inter-Ministerial Delegation. Archived from the original (PDF) on 7 April 2014. Retrieved 19 March 2013. ^ Tom Batchelor (14 November 2015). "Paris terror attacks – Disneyland Paris to stay closed on Saturday after terror attacks - World - News - Daily Express". Express.co.uk. ^ "Euro Disney, 25 ans d'histoire mouvementée". Les Echos. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Theme Museum Index 2016" (PDF). AECOM. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "NATACHA RAFALSKI APPOINTED TO PRÉSIDENTE OF DISNEYLAND PARIS". Disneyland Paris News. 2018. Retrieved 21 December 2018. ^ "Star Tours: The Adventures Continue Launches as Part of Disneyland Paris' 25th Anniversary". In Park Magazine. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Spider-Bot : le nouveau jouet Marvel interactif du Avengers Campus !". Dlrp Express. 29 November 2020. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Un hôtel Marvel prévu pour 2020 à Disneyland Paris". RTBF. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Men Tell No Tales Premieres". E! News. 19 May 2017. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Disney plans €2bn expansion at Disneyland Paris" BBC. 27 February 2018. Retrieved 29 September 2023. ^ "Disney investit €2 mds dans le développement de Disneyland Paris". Les Echos. Retrieved 29 September 2023. ^ "Disney investit deux milliards d'euros pour agrandir Disneyland Paris". Le Figaro. 27 February 2018. Retrieved 29 September 2023. ^ "Catherine Powell steps into new Disney role". Park World. 29 March 2018. Retrieved 18 June 2018. ^ Whitten, Sarah (25 September 2019). "Disney names new leadership for Disneyland and Walt Disney World". CNBC. Retrieved 30 September 2019. ^ a b Petter, Olivia (7 February 2019). "Disneyland Paris to Host First-ever LGBT+ Event". The Independent. Retrieved 7 February 2019. ^ Niles, Robert (12 December 2018). "Women promoted to top spots for Disney Parks in Paris and Hong Kong". Theme Park Insider. Retrieved 15 May 2020. ^ Street, Francesca (15 July 2020). "Disneyland Paris reopens with new Covid-19 measures". CNN. Retrieved 13 September 2020. ^ Rhodes, Elizabeth (16 July 2020). "Disneyland Paris is the Latest Disney Theme Park to Reopen Amid the Coronavirus Pandemic". Travel + Leisure. Retrieved 13 September 2020. ^ Zlady, Hanna (29 October 2020). "Disneyland Paris shuts down again as France enters lockdown". CNN. Retrieved 29 October 2020. ^ "Disneyland Paris to re-open on June 17". Reuters. 17 May 2021. Retrieved 17 May 2021. ^ "Maintenant que Villages Nature Tourisme est à son tour restructuré, Pierre & Vacances va pouvoir se concentrer pleinement à son retour à une rentabilité durable". Les Echos. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Pierre et Vacances conclut le rachat de Villages Nature Paris". L'Echo. 14 December 2022. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "EXCLUSIF. Disneyland Paris : sa présidente dévoile ce qui est prévu pour les 30 ans du parc". Le Journal du dimanche. 12 February 2022. Retrieved 3 September 2023. ^ "Gironde : le spectacle de la société bordelaise Dronisos pour Disneyland Paris encensé à Londres". Sud Ouest. 19 September 2022. Retrieved 3 September 2023. ^ Nouvelle, L'Usine (5 February 2022). "Pour fêter ses 30 ans, Disneyland Paris prépare un spectacle avec 200 drones". L'Usine Nouvelle. Retrieved 3 September 2023. ^ "The WINNERS". Park World Excellence Awards. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "Marvel Avengers Campus : un nouvel univers fantastique au sein du parc Disneyland Paris". ELLE. 12 September 2022. Retrieved 3 September 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris inaugure son 'Avengers Campus' : La plus grande transformation du parc depuis son ouverture". Franceinfo. 15 July 2022. ^ "Disney Parks Outpace Competitors, Winning Several Awards". Inside the Magic. 18 November 2022. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "Disneyland hosts inaugural EDM festival Electroland, plans to return in 2019". We Rave You. 10 July 2017. Retrieved 15 July 2019. ^ "Disneyland Paris announces 4th edition of Electroland in 2020". We Rave You. 13 July 2019. Retrieved 15 July 2019. ^ a b "VIDEO. Le nouveau spectacle de Disneyland Paris pour faire rêver les familles". La Marne. 24 July 2021. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris Premieres New Interactive Show: Disney Junior Dream Factory at Walt Disney Studios Park". Disneyland Paris. July 2021. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris launches Together: A Pixar Musical Adventure". Travel Weekly. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ ""Together " : le nouveau spectacle immersif signé Pixar". ELLE. 25 July 2023. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ "Minecraft fans gather for Minecon in Paris". France Bleu. 26 November 2012. ^ a b "Tourisme en France : quels sont les cinq sites les plus visités en 2022 ?". La Croix. 28 February 2023. Retrieved 10 September 2023. ^ a b c "Disneyland Paris au cœur du tourisme français". Le Figaro. 25 February 2017. Retrieved 10 September 2023. ^ "30 years of the convention: the social and economic benefits of Disneyland Paris". DLP Town Square. 19 March 2017. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris, champion du tourisme français". Le Figaro. 24 February 2017. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "30 ans de Disneyland Paris : depuis son ouverture, le parc d'attraction a transformé la Seine-et-Marne". France Bleu. 11 April 2022. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris a bouleversé le paysage touristique français". Les Echos. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "Réutiliser les eaux usées, une bonne solution pour économiser l'eau ?". Ouest France. 18 August 2022. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris : la plus grande centrale solaire d'Île-de-France installée sur le parking visiteurs". Le Parisien. 21 April 2022. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris : la plus grande centrale solaire d'Île-de-France installée sur le parking visiteurs". Le Parisien. 21 April 2022. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ "Euro Disney a économisé 1,5 million de m3 d'eau grâce à sa station d'épuration". Le Parisien. 14 April 2019. Retrieved 16 September 2023. ^ "Sécheresse : pourquoi la France est en retard pour la réutilisation des eaux usées". Challenges. 12 August 2022. Retrieved 16 September 2023. ^ "Comment Disneyland Paris a rendu son parking visiteurs école ?". Actu.fr. 21 April 2022. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris : la plus grande centrale solaire d'Île-de-France installée sur le parking visiteurs". Le Parisien. 21 April 2022. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris installe 82 000 panneaux solaires sur son parking visiteurs". Actu Energie. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris participe au World Clean Up Day". Disneyland Paris News. 18 September 2023. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ a b "Pièces Jaunes 2022 : 500 enfants et leurs familles profitent d'une journée à Disneyland Paris®". Fondation des Hôpitaux. 19 May 2022. Retrieved 27 September 2023. ^ "Des enfants marseillais malades accueillis à Disneyland Paris". La Provence. 19 May 2022. Retrieved 27 September 2023. ^ "Pièces Jaunes : avant de retrouver les Bleus, Didier Deschamps était à Disney avec Brigitte Macron". Le Figaro. 18 May 2022. Retrieved 27 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris Named Europe's Best Family Park at European Star Awards". Daps Magic. 9 December 2020. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ "Pierre et Vacances remporte les European Star Awards et est sélectionné quatre fois aux Park World Excellence Awards". DisneylandParis News. 3 December 2020. Retrieved 28 September 2023. ^ a b "Europe's Leading Theme Park Resort 2022". World Travel Awards. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ a b "Parkmania Awards 2022: i Magnifici 7 d'Europa". Parkmania. 16 September 2022. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ a b "Disneyland Paris récompensé pour l'Excellence de ses Attractions et Expériences". DisneylandParis News. 28 December 2022. Retrieved 20 September 2023. ^ Molleda, Juan-Carlos; Kochhar, Sarab (30 July 2019). Global and Multicultural Public Relations. John Wiley & Sons. p. 59. ISBN 978-1-118-67396-6. ^ "Centre d'aide". Disneyland Paris. Retrieved 10 October 2023. ^ Disneyland. "Our Top Five Attractions". Disneyland. Archived from the original on 28 November 2014. Retrieved 28 March 2013. ^ a b c "Disneyland Paris – the Main Rides and Attractions". The Good Life France. 2013. Archived from the original on 2 April 2013. Retrieved 28 March 2013. ^ "Walt Disney makes 2 billion euros investment in Disneyland Paris". Reuters. Retrieved 26 August 2023. ^ "Les différents parcs de Disneyland Paris". OutgoMag. Retrieved 26 August 2023. ^ "Disneyland Paris is Europe's top tourist destination". RFI. 6 April 2012. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ "A Disneyland Paris, un imaginaire dilué dans l'univers des héros Marvel". Le Monde. 22 July 2023. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ "Number of visitors to Disneyland Paris theme park in France from 2009 to 2021". Statista. Retrieved 15 September 2023. ^ "Transformative Multi-Year Expansion Announced for Disneyland Paris". Disney Parks Blog. Archived from the original on 27 February 2018. ^ "A Disneyland Paris, un imaginaire dilué dans l'univers des héros Marvel". Le Monde. 22 July 2023. Retrieved 16 September 2023. ^ "Ouverture du Marvel Avengers Campus le 20 juillet à Disneyland Paris !". Forbes. 31 May 2022. Retrieved 16 September 2023. ^ "Trains between London and Disneyland paris from 7 June 2023". Eurostar. Retrieved 3 July 2023. ^ "Eurostar axes direct London to Disneyland Paris trains from 2023 after 27 years". mylondon.news. 26 August 2022. Retrieved 3 July 2023. ^ "Eurostar to suspend direct trains to Disneyland Paris". BBC News. 1 September 2022. ^ "Theme Index". AECOM. Retrieved 15 April 2020. ^ "Disneyland Park Paris historical attendance data". Queue Times. Retrieved 29 September 2023. ^ "GLOBAL ATTRACTIONS ATTENDANCE REPORT" (PDF). ^ "AECOM Theme Index 2023 Global Attractions Attendance Report" (PDF). Wikimedia Commons has media related to Disneyland Paris. Wikivoyage has a travel guide for Disneyland Resort Paris. Official website The Parisian Guide Retrieved from " Location: Marne-la-Vallée, France Years Active: 1992 – Active Disneyland Paris, located in Marne-la-Vallée, France, is a world-famous theme park featuring two parks: Disneyland Park and Walt Disney Studios Park. It offers iconic attractions like Sleeping Beauty Castle, Space Mountain, and Ratatouille: The Adventure. Visitors can enjoy parades, fireworks, and immersive Disney-themed experiences suitable for all ages. This page is an archive of Saint Louis Zoo maps and brochures from 2025 and dating back to 1992. Disneyland Paris – it's a classic, but it's not all sunshine and pixie dust. Crowds can be crazy, and costs add up fast. Plan ahead if you want to survive! Disneyland Park for fairytales and Sleeping Beauty Castle, and Walt Disney Studios Park for a movie-themed experience. Studios Park is often less crowded. Pro-tip: Need a breather? Find quieter spots in the gardens or on less popular rides. Disney magic comes at a price. Food is expensive and lines are long, especially during peak times. Bring snacks and visit during the spring or fall for a less hectic trip. Disneyland Paris keeps things fresh with seasonal events and new attractions. Still, sometimes the magic feels a bit forced. Love it or hate it, Disneyland Paris is a European experience to check off your bucket list! Printable Disneyland Paris Map PDF 2025Download It is cheaper to buy Disneyland Paris tickets online. Online purchases often include discounts, promotional deals, and flexible date options, while tickets at the park are usually sold at full price. Disneyland Paris tickets range from €56 to €105 per person for a single-day pass, depending on the season and whether you visit one or both parks. Multi-day passes provide additional savings. A bottle of water in Disneyland Paris typically costs around €3, although prices can vary depending on the vendor within the park. A single-day ticket to Disneyland Paris costs between €56 and €105, depending on the type of pass, day of the week, and season. Multi-day tickets or advance purchases may offer discounts. Frederick Luna Frederick Luna, is a world traveler who has spent many family vacations at many different theme parks. Some of his favorites includes Legoland, Knotts Berry Farm, and Dollywood. Always ready to share info about his favorite theme parks!