Hip hop line dance songs 2018. Popular dance songs 2018 hip hop.

Travis Scott - Sicko Mode feat. His album "SWIMMING" which dropped earlier this year was a real masterpiece and it saddens me to know that we will never get a truly new Mac Miller project ever again. Both The Weeknd and Kendrick continue to dominate the charts and when the two came together, this song became an instant addition to every "We Going Out" playlist in the world. 10. Sheck Wes - Mo Bamba This song is ignorant as hell and really doesn't do much as far as pushing the hip-hop genre forward. Kendrick Lamar feat. Travis Scott, longtime king of the youngest fans in hip-hop, put out his career-best Astroworld; Cardi B surprised everyone with the diamond-solid Invasion of Privacy; Tierra Whack announced her presence with the stunningly creative calling card that is Whack World. Ryan Middleton With the start of 2019 just a few days away, we wanted to bring in the new year by taking a look back at some of the biggest hip-hop tracks of the year. Jay Rock - Win This by far is Jay Rock's biggest song in a long time and it's more than deserving of a spot on our list! It's also probably the best workout song of 2018 as well. 9. Cardi B Featuring J Balvin and Bad Bunny - I Like It While I am not the biggest Cardi B fan, it would be ridiculous to ignore the crazy year the queen of hip-hop had in 2018. But this year felt different — just as important as the A-List names that have been at the top of the game for most of the 2000s were the new stars being minted seemingly every month. "Better Now" is just one of the many hits from his Posty's 2018 album Beerbongs and Bentleys. 7. We miss you man. 6. This track also features the best Jay Z verse I have heard in quite some time! 4. Travis is probably hip-hop's biggest winner of 2018 just on the strength of Astroworld alone. 2. The Weeknd & Kendrick Lamar - Pray For Me You can't really argue with this one. Travis Scott - Stargazing Everything about this song is just sick. It's not likely to slow down now. My favorite thing about this guy (besides his solid music) is the fact that he's just comes off as a genuinely nice guy that you would probably party with if given the chance. J is one of the most consistent rappers in the game today and he continues to put out intelligent music that you can vibe with. 8. Rick Ross & Jay Z) This track is so hard. However, it goes off like no other and its overall hype factor forces it on to our list with ease. 15. Cole - ATMJ. It was also one of the best live songs I saw in 2018 without a doubt. 12. Mega stars like Cardi B, Travis Scott, Kanye West, and Post Malone all put out huge projects that racked up millions of plays, but over all we saw quite a few artists put out great music this year and you can check out all of our picks below. 1. The beat and lyrics were meant for each other and I can't really think of a song that better puts you into party mode than "Stargazing." 11. 2018 was another massive year for hip-hop, as the genre continues to be one of the most popular in all of music. While nobody is winning any awards for being overly clever on this song, it still bangs just as you would expect it to making is an auto pick for this years top tracks. 13. Childish Gambino - This is America Childish Gambino dropped one of the biggest songs of the year with a video that shocked a lot of people. It's blasted on the radio 24/7 and yet I just can't turn it off. Usually, this would be all we have time for. "The Story of Adidon" was the finishing blow that left Drake silent for the rest of the conflict. Thanks for watching! Thanks for watching! Thanks for watching! 3. Meek Mill - What's Free (feat. RIP Mac., Juicy J) This is another song that just brings energy into a room whenever it get's played. BlocBoy JB & Drake - Look Alive BlocBoy JB and Drake teamed up on "Look Alive" which is still getting plenty of spins on the radio and in strip clubs alike. Meek Mill obviously takes the "Comeback of The Year" award after beating his case and this song is a personal favorite that I can't get enough of. Mac Miller - Self Care! Still can't believe that Mac Miller is no longer on this earth. Drake! m still sick of this song to be honest. While I didn't like too many other tracks from Rae Sremmurd this year, "Powerglide" was a monster that eventually found its way to ESPN where they forcefully played it out faster than just about any other song I heard in 2018. 14. J. This song is corny but it's a hit sometimes the people want a corny hit to shake their asses to! "I Like It" delivers just that and has like 80 million streams to back it up. FULL PLAYLIST: December 26, 2018 2:32PM ET 2018 was a monumental year in hip-hop. Cole delivered another solid album in early 2018 with KOD and "ATM" was my favorite track from the project. Post Malone - Better Now Post Malone is probably the biggest star in pop music at the moment. Lets hope more artists can use their platforms to open some more eye balls in 2019. 5. It was a big year for the big names, but it also felt like a changing of the guard. Every marquee star the genre has put out a project (if you include Kendrick Lamar's Black Panther soundtrack, which you should), from Kanye West's frenzied five week rollout of G.O.O.D. Music artists, to Jay-Z and Beyoncé finally dropping their long-hinted at collaboration album Everything Is Love, and Drake doing that thing that Drake does, which is own the charts for most of the year with cuts from Scorpion. Rae Sremmurd - Powerglide (ft. SZA - All the Stars just about everything Kendrick touches seems to turn to gold and this TDE collab between standout singer SZA and King Kendrick himself was by far one of the biggest songs of the year across all platforms. Pusha T - The Story of Adidon There was a lot of beef between rappers and R&B artists in 2018 but the best beef of all (well it was more like a straight murder) had to be between Pusha T and Drake.
