African imperialism political cartoon

African imperialism political cartoons.

1. Men seem to talk about Africa and what they do. I believe that the metaphor is that Africa is a cake and is given only to men at the table, which is wrong because Africa does not belong to them. The meeting is the Berlin conference and the mustache boy is eight von bismarck. 2. Whitman seems to force the native to go to a school home, which is like saying that Whitman is trying to force their roads on the natives. This species says imperialism has been seen as powerful all, as people could do what they wanted to do. 3. Men represent countries that wanted to conquer Africa for themselves. The author is trying to say that everyone was after Africa and that he fought for it, which made a crazy thing to do. Who is the cartoonist of this cartoon? Image 1. a.
