

How to fix fridge not cooling but freezer works

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Next

How to fix fridge not cooling but freezer works

How to fix a deep freezer that is not cooling. Why would refrigerator stop cooling but freezer still works. How to fix a fridge if it's not cooling. Why is my freezer working but not fridge. How to fix a freezer that is not cooling.

Almost all modern American houses have a freezer, most likely connected to a fridge. But why did they freeze food? To store for later the food we will not be able to reach within a few days if the pused in the refrigerator. Thus, this huge cooker of stew beef goes to the freezer, along with that revolutionary invention of the XX season: frozen dinner. But the need to store food for later - or create ice to keep the drinks chilled - it is much older than remains of food and television dinners. Back to the first civilization. There are thousands of years, the ancient mesopotans discovered that cold food rots more slowly than the food left abroad [source: Shepherd]. So they excavated large moats into the ground, they isolated them with straw or sand, and then covered us with ice and snow from the nearest mountains. These fosses, or ice caves, were used to preserve food for two or three weeks at a time. The mesopotans understood that the hot air from the outside could prevent the snow from cooling the food, so the entrance was kept small and narrow to avoid air infiltration. This is how foods were preserved during themselves until about the end of the century XVI, when England and Franca created their own version with the invention of the ice house [source : Martin]. Although many were at least partially in the ground, some were designed as colmo roofs that could keep the cold food or provide chopped ice for drinks and desserts - with the help of snow and ice brought from the lakes - for about a year. The process was similar to that of the ice cave, with an insulation like the sawdust or small branches that were covered with snow and sawdust. These ended up giving rise to the creation of the refrigerator, a small cabin that had a compartment to save a large block of ice and compartment for storing food. These were common until © about the pain © each of 1920, when refrigerators and freezer elves © ctrics began to make their debut. At that time, science and industry had established the idea of mechanical cooling, in which a The gás kept things in a cold compartment. That's why today's freezers mechanically circulate in steam are a little more complicated (and efficient) than hollowed-out ice caves filled with mountain snow. Next, we'll find out how various scientific discoveries led to the creation of the modern freezer we use today. Page 2 Esque the beauty aisle to priori@ the secret ingredients for bright, beautiful skin live in your kitchen. Simplify your skin care regimen with these ten delicious "recipes". Nast!honey and Greek yogurt are beauty healers, acting as exfoliators and moisturizers. This creamy meat leaves the skin super soft (but not entirely oily).2 tbsp organic greek yogurt yogurt tsp organic honey! tsp amá^ndoa oil Combine all ingredients in one paste. Apply a generous layer to face and leave for ten minutes, then rinse with hot water. This hand works with double duty Á Ahersegaá Salt Epsom extracts dirt and oil from the pores, while papaya and yogurt soothe clean skin. Meat of four papaya2 single yogurt balls/2 xÁcara Epsom salts1 peppermint tea bag In a bowl, mash papaya with a fork: Mix in yogurt and put aside. Dissolve Epsom salts in a large pot of water, then fall into tea bag. Bring a van. remove from heat. Sit face down on the pan for three minutes, head covered with a towel (like a tent) to seal the steam. Spread your papaya face on your face. Leave in ten minutes. rinse. Treat the soft skin around your eyes carefully and you will look like you always get your beauty sleep. 1/2 tsp jojoba oil1/2 tsp pure shea butter1 cup water2 chamomile tea bags2 green tea bags In a bowl, mix jojoba oil and shea butter; Let it go. Microwave water for a minute, then bags of tea for a few seconds. Squeeze out. Place a chamomile bag on each top pÁjlpebra and a bag of green under every eye. Relax for ten minutes. Throw the bags and gently touch joba balm around the eyes. Not only does this mop create a more beautiful pouch, but gently perfume sums up there, leaving them as sweet as they are they are 1/2 tablespoon of honey1 1/2 tablespoon of sugar juice from 1/4 tablespoon coconut oil1 ap. 1 teaspoon of essential oil from 1 capsule of vitamin E1 essential oil drop in a bowl, mix honey, sugar and lemon juice. Rub the breaths with your finger in a circular motion to exfoliate; rinse. Combine the remaining ingredients in another bowl. Dab in the water. The extras are kept in the fridge for a week. Do you love a stain on the water? Get the perfect color on the last day with this two-step treatment.1/2 cup of oil vaseline 1 scoop or 2 packets of Natural Cherry Pomegranate Crystal LightSmall romAÉ crystal blend vaseline and crystal light in a bowl, adding 1 tablespoon of water a few drops at © time, until the glow turn red from berries. Use a mirror to soften the mule in the jar. The best way to prepare for warmer weather? Cut dead skin in winter with an exfoliator that smells like the islands. (Pina glued not included).1 xÁSacara of mascavated sugar 1/3 xÁcara of virgin coconut oil10 drops of essential oil of pink and/or sándalo In a glass bowl add essential(s) to the sugar and stir well. Add moisturizing coconut oil gradually, stirring continuously. Stop when the scrub reaches the hymide sand consistation. The coffee tightens the loose skin, so that this exfoliator acts as an instant cleaner.1/4 of raw sugar 1/4 tea coffee © ground1 tablespoon of olive oil2 tablespoon of coconut oil1 tablespoon of sea© salt Mix all the ingredients and put in an herbal container. Massage the whole body in upward motion before rinsing. This spicy blend may remind you of Christmas, but © ideal for any season of the year. Ginger and cinnamon help fight sickness, while turmeric reduces inflammation.1/4 xÁcara of nutmeg1/4 xÁcara of tumo©nutmeg1/4 xÁcara of ginger1/4 xÁcara of rice on bread of Clove xÁcara Mix all the spices, slowly adding one drop of water at a time © the spices form a paste. Spread a thin layer over your skin and allow to dry for 15 minutes. After exfoliating, make sure it moisturizes your skin. This easy recipe produces an intensely moisturizing cream that will not feel excessively excessively Karma butter mug © 2 spoonfuls of oil-based abacate5-10 essential lavender oil drops Mix karite butter © and avocado oil in a pan on low heat, churning up © melt. Pour it into a small sealing container. Add both lavender as you like. Refrigerate until © Creamy. Slather all over the apres-shower. The peppermint will leave your crumbs tingly, fresh, and shockingly awake (this is ©, do not use this treatment before bed!). 4 strawberries s1/2 sugar poultrymeat 2 olive soup spoons 2 oil soup spoons vegetal8 essential drops of peppermint in a bowl, pureed © or mash berries (which help exfoliate grease to salicylic acid), then add sugar and olive and vegetable oils. Mix up © well mixed. Add the mint oil 2 drops at a time until © that scrub smells like mint. Pour spoon, then hide in the cooler or use it immediately. immediately.