Bresser wifi camera manual

Manufacturers & Suppliers of Astronomical Telescopes in India Serving Amateur Astronomers Since 1976 Top positive reviewAll positive reviews: solstice5.0 out of 5 starsTook a minute but works greatReviewed in the United States on March 20, 2019I was ready to send this product back but since the feeder was already up, I decided to work with it and see what I could do. Since there are no instructions for the camera other than inserting the micro-SD card, it took a bit to figure out if it's on or not TIP-charge the camera, then turn it on WITHOUT the SD card. The light will blink continuously without the card. That way you know its on Once the card is inserted, it stops blinking, but stays on.Also, the feeder is very small, so there's no place for the birds to land or sit while eating. When I first put it up, I got no pictures of birds, but would get pics of my hand reaching for the camera (so I knew it was working) - I built a small "shelf" under the feeder so now the birds have a spot to sit on and as you can see from the pics, the feeder is working great! Posted 20 April 2016 - 10:09 PM My little nephew got a wifi 70-900 Edu Science scope from Toys R Us. I know, I know. Seems to work okay but we can't figure out the password to the wifi camera. When I turn on the camera I can see the network pop up in my iPad mini available networks but it wants a password to join. No mention of a password in the manual. I went to their website and it is a division of Explore Scientific. No help there except the manual that came with it. It says to install wifi web cam app on the viewer device, no name and no password mentioned. Can't tell him to give it back and buy a better one. Maybe later. Any advice? I tried "password" as a password and nothing. I can see it broadcasts as bersser wifi, which is another division of Explore Scientific. Thanks for any input. Posted 21 April 2016 - 01:03 AM Did you try it without a password? Posted 21 April 2016 - 01:56 AM Posted 21 April 2016 - 02:37 AM I found a good manual on Bresser website. password is 12345678 now trying to find iPad web cam app Posted 21 April 2016 - 02:18 PM The app is "wificamera-telescope" at the App Store or Google play and works fine. Fun experience just setting it up. I will be looking into some better equipment for myself. If one has any doubts about the value of a good (read expensive) mount, try focusing a wifi cam on an iPad.
