John Grogan is a renowned author behind international bestsellers like Marley & Me: Life and Love with the World's Worst Dog and its middle-grade version, Marley: A Dog Like No Other. He has also written three picture books that topped the charts. Grogan resides in rural Pennsylvania with his family. John Grogan was a prize-winning journalist and columnist for over two decades. He lives in Pennsylvania with his wife Jenny and their three children. Catherine Hapka is a prolific author of books for kids across various age groups. Unfortunately, she's too tall to ride ponies, but her horse Gerri still looks like one. Catherine takes riding lessons twice a week and shares her farm with Gerri, goats, chickens, and numerous cats. Russell Hoban penned the Frances series, illustrated by Lillian Hoban, including A Bargain for Frances and Bread and Jam for Frances. He also wrote Bedtime for Frances, illustrated by Garth Williams. Katharine Kenah's Family Favorite is her grandmother's grandmother's secret brownie recipe. Passed down through generations, these treats have been a family favorite for years. Besides writing the Room 75 series, Katharine has penned The Dream Shop and other nonfiction books for children. She lives in Granville, Ohio, with her family. Level 2 books cater to Grades 1-3, featuring longer stories and vocabulary that encourage developing readers. Ten titles include: Amelia Bedelia and the Surprise Shower and Frog and Toad Are Friends.
