Ringtones for android phone

A ringtone is the sound that the phone does when there is a call coming. The ringtones are available in different sounds. Although the phone is equipped with some ringtones, you can download additional ringtones directly from your mobile phone service provider or from one of the many websites that offer ringtones [source: Beck.] This requires the phone to be connected to the Internet via a wireless connection. There are different types of ringtones, including: Musical Tones The phone will be part of a tuning every time it sounds. Voice Tones You'll hear a voice recorded every time there's a call coming. Sound tones You will feel sound effects when the phone plays [source: ATT]. Here's how to get ringtones offered by two of the most popular cell phone providers. VerizonPress on the Get It Now arrow, which also acts as the right navigation arrow on your laptop. The Get It Now browser will open. Now you're connected to a list of available ringtones. Select VZW Tones Deluxe to download the tones on the phone [source: Verizon]. AT&TGo to the AT&T AppCenter Home screen and choose Categories. Choose Sounds, Ringback Tones, Games, Applications. Choose Ringtones. Filter to select the ringtone you want to download. Choose your E Enter the information you will be required. Choose Buy to downloadringtone for your phone [source: att]. If you want to buy ringtones from an online store, visit the online store and follow the instructions listed. There are tens, probably hundreds, of android phones on the market today. some of them are exclusive to specific carriers, some of them are available worldwide, but only some of them are at the head of their class. this week we wanted to know which android phones you thought they were the best available, not only because you complete a checklist of features or high-end hardware, but because you think they offer a great general experience. Here is a look at the five best android phones, based on your candidacies. Before the week, we asked you which android phones you thought were the best. There are a lot of sites willing to tell you which phones are the best based on chips inside, camera, storage, or version of Android preinstalled, but those things don't always add up to a great user experience. We asked you which phones, past or present, thought were the best, and over 300 nominations later, we returned to highlight the first five. the survey is closed and the votes are counted! to find out which of the five contenders below took the highest prize based on your votes, go to our hive five followup posts to discover and discuss the winner! looking for a decent android phone? Of course, we know that the market will be completely different within a read moresamsung galaxy noteoften citedas a "phablet" due to its included stylus and massive 5.3" Super AMOLED display, the Samsung Galaxy Note (AT&T, $299 w/contract) is huge, but many of you praised to merge the portability of a phone with a little desperately necessary tablet-as real estate. The 8MP and 2MP rear and front cameras and the 1.4GHz dual core processor don't even harm issues, and while it's definitely not the right size for everyone, those of you who have a love, and others are waiting for release on other carriers. In addition, although the Galaxy Note ships with Android 2.3 Gingerbread preinstalled, there are a lot of ROMs available to bring it up to Android 4.0 Ice Cream Sandwich, or simply replace the Samsung TouchWiz interface completely. HTC One X/SThe HTC One series is HTC's latest attempt to recreate, not that the company really needs – most people who used HTC devices love them, and HTC One X and One S are no exception to the rule. The One X (AT&T, $199 w/contract) is HTC's new flagship phone, which features a 4.7" screen, a NVidia Tegra quad-core 3 (international) or a Qualcomm Snapdragon dual-core processor (US/Canada), Android 4.0 Ice Cream Sandwich (with HTC Sense UI up), integrated Beats Audio and a back 8MP camera with a 1.3MP. The HTC One S (T-Mobile, $189 w/contract) is a slightly smaller screen from 4,3", a 1.5 Ghz dual core processor, 8MP and VGA front cameras, audio Beats and Ice Cream Sandwich.devices are slimmed, powerhouse devices designed to bring attention to android lovers to a selected group of high-end htc devices, instead of those of dozen more htc released in the past. So far it works. samsung galaxy S/S iiii samsung galaxy s series of devices are some of the most popular smartphones in the world, and although samsung and apple are embroidered in a patent cause on exactly how similar the galaxy s is for the iphone (and vice versa,) that did not stop the galaxy s and galaxy s ii to sell millions of units worldwide. the galaxy s was one of the first dual-core android smartphones, and certainly one of the first to characterize the new super amoled samsung display (at the time,) offering bright and crisp colors even in bright light. and' still available for a song depending on the carrier from which you take (in oa, it was sold under the vibrating name (T-Mobile), captivate (AT&T), fascinate (wire verizon wireless,) and epic (sprint) in both variants 3g and 4g.) the story aside, the samsung galaxy s ii designs is the current model of the company and has a super amoled 4 status core3 the price varies depending on the carrier and the variant you choose, but one thing is certain: when it was launched, most people considered the galaxy s ii the best android smartphone - if not the best smartphone - available onmarket, which makes the furor over the next Samsung Galaxy S III that much stronger. Motorola Droid Series Motorola's Droid series (Motorola Milestone, internationally) was one of the first Android phones on the market to really bring Android to the masses - and definitely the first Android phone available on Verizon Wireless at the moment. It was a difficult call to group the Droid series together, but it is worth noting that those of you who named the Droid line in large numbers specifically mentioned slider models, not candybar models such as Droid Razr, Razr Maxx, or Bionic (though all have strong nomination as well)-all available on Verizon Wireless in the United States. The Motorola Droid 4 (VZW, $199 w/contract) is the current phone iteration, with a QHD 4 display", a 1.2 GHz dual core processor, 8MP rear and 1.3MP front cameras, and above all a backlit slide keyboard that allows the phone to be used both in vertical and landscape mode without sacrificing the real estate screen. The Droid line is still one of the few high-end Android devices to have a physical keyboard, making it popular for both portability, and with people who prefer physical keyboards to those on the screen. The Droid 4 sports Android Gingerbread, and rides Verizon Wireless' 4G network. Samsung Galaxy Nexus The Samsung Galaxy Nexus (VZW, Sprint, $199 /w contract, $399 unlocked) is the current official "Google Phone," having launched with Android 4.0 Ice Creamand currently acts as a flagship Android device. It features a 4.6 inch Super AMOLED display, a curved contour screen, a 1.2 GHz dual core processor, and rear and 1.3MP and 5MP cameras. It is a pure Google experience, which means that the phone is (mostly) free of bloatware and other preinstalled applications from carriers and manufacturers, and in particular missing Samsung's TouchWiz UI layer in favor of a clean version of Ice Cream Sandwich. The phone also sports payment system NFC Google, Google Wallet. The camera boasts zero shutter lag, and it was the first phone to launch with Ice Cream Sandwich preinstalled, and it is still one of the few devices that you can get that already has it. If you want the most true and pure Android experience possible, or want an Android phone that is officially supported by Google, this is. Here, the top five Android phones, based on your application. Time to vote for the sample. It was difficult this week to run down the top five considering that there are three Samsung devices running, but some of them got more nominations than some of the other combined contenders, so we can't ignore the fact that many of you have a strong opinion on these specific models. Do you have anything to say about the candidates we missed? Didn't your favorite phone get enough nominations to be included? Remember, the top five are based on your most popular nominations from the call for threat contenders from before in the week. Share yourin the comments below. The Hive Five is based on readers' nominations. As with most of the five posts, if your favorite was left out, it is not because we hate it — it is because it did not get the required applications in the call for the mail contenders to make the top five. We know it's a bit of a popularity contest, but if you have a favorite, we want to hear it. Do you have a suggestion for the Five Hive? Send us an email to tips+hivefive@lifehacker.com!
