Fun minecrafting! 8 At first glance, Minecraft doesn't seem to have much else except jogging and building. But the more you play the game, the more you understand how much experience it can give you. They are not limited to Minecraft. It offers a sandbox where you can craft, explore and find various treasures that are hidden in the open world map. So let's look at 35 things you can do with Minecraft without further ado. 1. Murder of the End Dragon, although it is the main story, Minecraft does not explain the quest very much. So you may not even understand the end of the Dragon game, especially if you are a beginner. So you can get stronger with a variety of game mechanics and find a fortress to get to the final portal. Only then can they kill the kite and complete the story. 2. Visit the end of the city. You'll find a small portal and that's it. Explore a new area and see a huge purple building with a floating boat. Explore both places and let yourself be in the great offerings in the chests. You can also buy Elytra aboard a ship so you can glide and spread across the sky. Don't forget to take the dragon's head. 3. Summon and kill Enders Dragon Enders is not the only Minecraft boss. You can also call and kill warps. After killing this boss, you will receive a Dutch star, which in turn helps you build a lighthouse, which is another useful element of the game. Of course, calling a thread is not an easy task. You need to visit Holland and sand until you collect three fabric skeleton skulls. Along with some soul sand, you can call the boss anywhere and kill him. You tooStraighten your neck as many times as you want. Want to challenge yourself to try two of them at once? 4. Beware of the Ender's Dragon If you have already killed the Ender's Dragon and want to relive the experience, don't worry. Minecraft lets you refresh yourself with the Ender Dragon as many times as you want. All you have to do is generate the last four crystals and place them on the bed where the dragon is sitting. You will be rewarded with spectacular displays of the latest crystals that will restore the towers and eventually the dragon. Additionally, killing the Ender Dragon also opens a new portal to a new Ender City, meaning you can advance and recruit another Elytra. In addition, Ender Dragon also gives you progress towards "The End". There are a total of 95 upgrades across five different tabs in the game. You can check the progress at any time by pressing -L on your keyboard. There are 16 victories in the Minecraft tab, and 24 in the Nether tab. There are also nine achievements in the final. Adventure and Hundive tabs are 28 and 18 respectively, trying to unlock all the achievements can definitely be a problem, especially if you need some to find all the biomes or fight a lot of games. You can also unlock some hidden achievements. But the ones that come only after you fill them. 6. Are you building your own server or are you tired of playing Minecraft alone? In this case, you can easily create your own server and invite your friends to play with you. After that, you can build charming buildings and take over the world of Minecraft. You can also watch history with your friends, challenge each other or even turn on PVP and fight to the death and see who doesn't win. The possibilities are endless. 7. Create super structures, because Minecraft has a lot of materials. You can creatively collect what you need and create huge designs. Even if the process takes time, the end is always worthwhile. You can even connect to the internet and find tons of themes to pick up and create your own world. If you want to challenge yourself, you can try to build structures like a huge castle, a statue or a ship to survive in places where you are constantly threatened by hordes of enemies. 8. Upgrade your baseYou there, why not try updating the database? You can be inspired by the real world and build a beautiful villa where you can live in the game. Real world inspiration can also be a challenge as you need to find resources that can present your lineage as close to the world as possible. If you're inspired by the real world, you can also get into building projects like the Statue of Liberty or even all of New York. 9. Build a farm for anything, the more built, the more dependency it causes. So why not try creating some useful buildings like XP Farm or Shooting Farm in Minecraft? These types of farms can provide a lot of experience and resources that you can use to create new objects and spells. In the game, you can build various farms. In addition, you can also surf the Internet and look for farm projects or instructions. Here are some of the farms you can build: Cement Farms XP Farm Dust Farm Bamboo Farms Ender Perls Farms Wool Farms There are many other farms you can build in the game. Also, if you know the basics of these farms, you can try to plan your autonomy. 10. Create an adventure map, if you want to take the time to build things, create a map with perfectly functioning NPCs and stuff and invite your friends. You can then go on an adventure with your friends and face unique challenges. You can also go online and search for a few maps made by Minecraft fans around the world. You can give you a new experience and make you face many puzzles. These cards are sure to make you excited and get rid of boredom. 11. Game mods in Minecraft modes are completely legal and can be installed for free. You can view different modes on your favorite websites like CurseForge. This site offers many modes to build your game or increase the difficulty level. Installing MOS in Minecraft is easy with plugins like Forge and Fabric. In addition, you can also install Modpack into the game, which can give you a whole new storyline, boss, and crowd to rejuvenate your love of Minecraft. 12. Explore the game, although Minecraft is an open world, the map is also randomly generated, which means that every world you create is different. You can put on the scout boots and go on an epic journey through the biome, looking for treasures, rare mobs andMinecraft feature. The new Minecraft. Cave and Cliffs update added too many elements to the game. Deeper caves and upper mountains that can be climbed find a variety of materials and even bright amethyst geodes. 13. Finding all music discs are unique items that can be placed in the Juke Box in Minecraft. On the map, you can find these discs in various locations such as Woodland Mansion, Buried Treasure, and more. Since you can't create music CDs, you have to do some work. There are some ways to get discs; For example, when you kill a climbing plant, when you make a skeleton, the music goes down. You can also beat the signs below and hopefully find the latest addition of "PigStep". Explore the rare "11" disc and perhaps meet and discover the most Minecraft harassment. 14. If you are not new to music making, you may be familiar with Minecraft blocks. These are unique blocks that produce musical notes. They are Redstone blocks, which means they need Redstone influence to work. Also, when the notes have different blocks under the block, different sounds occur. Be creative, discover the most suitable blocks to create a masterpiece. 15. Drill a madness mechanism that Redstone can especially handle with Redstone engineers, but that doesn't mean you shouldn't play around with it. You can enjoy the versatility of Redstone and its components and create perfect circuits such as automatic doors, automatic stairs and even cars. Even early in the game, Redstone has many uses. Use civilians, comparisons, repetitions, sunlight detectors and much more and experiment until you get the reader's sense. Then surprise with a crazy signature machine. 16. We know we should go to the Nether to conquer the Nether, we all need to go to the Nether to continue the game, but the Nether awaits your own investigation. The Nether update at 1.16 Minecraft provided different biomes with unique products. From basalt to dark red trees, if you haven't already, you can hunt and discover all new things in hell. In addition, if you have already purchased an Elytra, you can fly downstairs and experience an exciting adventure. 17. Fossils dug up, you may ask, "Minecraft fossils?"Pixel world. You can go to the swamp or desert biome and start getting it. Fossils are huge, blocked bony structures buried underground. You can speed up and look for the remains of ancient creatures and submit them to the server. Or, if the display is not interested, you can dig them out and use them. 18. Go Void Hunting Netherit is one of the rarest Minecraft resources. To get the ancient ruins, you will need to do quite a lot of excavation and blasting in the lower part. To get gold, you will need to squeeze the ancient remains, collect four of them and mix them with gold to eventually get the app. However, don't worry, he cannot destroy the ancient remains. But remember to avoid liquid lava that can get into the tunnel. 19. Collect rare items when it comes to rare neither, you can expand your search to find other rare items in the game.
